

Asian American Studies Department Presents
2012 Distinguished Lecture
and
AAS/EOP Student Awards Ceremony

Distinguished Lecturer Professor Kip
Fulbeck from UC Santa Barbara

Date: May 1, 2012

Time: 5:30-7:30pm

Location: Whitsett Room
(Sierra Hall 451)

Professor Fulbeck is a distinguished, critically-acclaimed artist, filmmaker, spoken word poet & performer. He is professor of Art at UCSB (affiliated faculty in Film & Media Studies and Asian American Studies).

The recipient of UC Santa Barbara's Distinguished Teaching Award, Professor Fulbeck has been featured on CNN, MTV, PBS, and the TODAY SHOW, and has performed and exhibited in over 20 countries and throughout the U.S., including the Whitney Biennial, Getty Museum, Japanese American National Museum, Singapore International Film Festival and Bonn Vieonale.

Professor Fulbeck is the author of several books, including, Part Asian 100% Hapa, Permanence: Tattoo Portraits, and Mixed: Portraits of Multiracial Kids, and Paper Bullets.

If you have any questions or concerns, please contact the Asian American Studies Dept. at (818) 677-4966

