Three Versions of Cædmon's Hymn

Cadmon's Hymn occurs in a number of manuscripts, which vary in their spelling of the poem. The two earliest manuscripts, the 'Moore' and the 'Leningrad' versions date to the eighth century and give the poem in a Northumbrian dialect. The other versions occur in tenth-century manuscripts and give the poem in West Saxon. In the texts below, the macrons, capitalisation, and punctuation have all been added by modern editors. The translation is as literal as possible without violating the norms of Modern English syntax.
