52* units GE and 6 units of Title V and 30 units of AAS = 88 or 89 units*.					88 or 89*	10 required AAS Classes

* Units may be slightly more depending on courses taken and double counting of AAS courses that are also GE.

- ~ Student needs 32 more units (10 to 11 classes) to finish BA requirement (120 units). These units are most likely to be from their other double major.
- ~ Please note that only 21 units of the required AAS courses are upper-division. Student needs 19 more upper-division units to fulfill the 40 upper-division units requirement (9 of the 40 must be GE). An additional 3 units can be taken from AAS 350, which also fulfills the Section D GE requirement. This means student needs another 16 units of upper-division requirement.
- ~ Student who has completed 56 units and has met the lower division writing requirement needs to take an essay exam called the Upper Division Writing Proficiency Examination (WPE). It is recommended to do this prior to earning 90 units (in junior year).
- ~ Please note that this plan is for GE-ready students. Students taking developmental courses will need summer classes to stay on this 4-year plan.
- ~ It is recommended that the student applies for graduation one year before the expected date of graduation. Student should meet with the advisor to do the graduation check to make sure all requirements will be met for graduation.
