

Summer 2012 Course Redesign Institute

The Faculty Technology Center's Summer 2012 Redesign Institute is designed for participants to:

- Learn trends and best practices in hybrid and online instruction
- Redesign courses for hybrid (50/50) or online delivery
- Take advantage of campus supported technologies
- Network with your peers and explore creative teaching methods
- Get customized support for your teaching needs

Twelve faculty members were selected for the 2012 Summer Institute, which will begin with a 2-week intensive, face-to-face session from June 4–15 and conclude with a 2-day showcase session on August 15-16 during which participants will present their redesigned courses. During the time in-between (June 15 - August 15) participants will continue working on their redesign projects through online activities, which has the added benefit of providing first-hand experience with online learning. During this time participants can also receive face-to-face support from their designated redesign teams, which include an instructional designer and a librarian.
