

TUESDAY 3/22/11
4:00pm

SALVADORAN AUTHOR

RÓGER LINDO

At the end of the 1970s, a young man from the Salvadoran middle class is introduced to the emergent revolutionary movement through his participation in the local union movement. In a textile factory he meets a beautiful worker and a group of friends. But the unions are forced to face the military, and the civil war in El Salvador begins.

This event will be conducted in Spanish

Sponsored by the Central American Studies Program

JR
218

California State University
Northridge