Dear CSUEU Dues Member,

The CSU has published an official statement that they will be paying wages to CSU employees. See email from Pat Gantt below.

Have a GREAT weekend!

Sincerely,

Claudia Garcia, President

TO: CSUEU Board of Directors

I have enclosed a document from the Chancellor's Office that states their position that they will pay full wages. This is consistent with the CSU's past practice in previous budget struggles. This will make all of us breath a little easier and enjoy the long weekend. Here is the text of the message from the CSU:

(July 2, 2010) – In response to Governor Schwarzenegger's directive today to cut the pay of state workers to the federal minimum wage until a budget is passed, the California State University announced that CSU employees will continue to receive their regular compensation. "We want to let CSU employees know that we have received confirmation from the State Controller's office that our employees' compensation is not impacted by this order," said CSU Chancellor Charles B. Reed. "Employees will receive their regular paychecks and can expect their normal compensation." The CSU intends to pay its employees with alternative revenue sources other than state general funds if it becomes necessary. Gov. Schwarzenegger has announced an order to cut the pay of about 200,000 state workers to the federal minimum wage of $7.25 an hour until a budget is signed. Payroll decisions for the first month of the fiscal year, which began on July 1, do not need to be made until July 20.

I will keep you posted if there are any further developments on the issue. We should be prepared to give our support to our brothers and sisters in SEIU Local 1000 who will be impacted if the Controller is forced to carry out the order.

In Union,
Pat
