

MERLE PRICE'S BIO

Merle Price teaches in the Principal Leadership Institute Master's Degree Program in the Graduate School of Education and Information Studies at UCLA and in the Master's and Doctoral Programs for the Educational Leadership and Policy Studies Department at California State University, Northridge. His teaching, research and leadership interests are in instructional leadership and entrepreneurship. Merle has more than 40 years experience as an educator and leader within the Los Angeles Unified School District, where he served as science teacher, principal, Local District Superintendent, and Deputy Superintendent, Instructional Services. He is experienced in charter school innovation and while principal at Palisades High School, led the conversion to Palisades Charter High School.

Merle is a leader in mathematics and science education and is a member of the leadership team for the National Science Foundation grant, System Wide Change for Leaders and Educators (SCALE), in collaboration with the University of Wisconsin, Madison, which targets reform of mathematics and science education in urban school districts. He has been involved in Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics (STEM) projects for K-12 schools for over 20 years.