Adventure in Paradise -- New Book Tells the Story of a Systems Engineer Who Gets the Job of Her Dreams in Hawaii, Only to Encounter the Sinister Side of Government Contracting

SAN DIEGO, Calif., April 25, 2008 (PRIME NEWSWIRE) -- When life settles into a predictable routine, some long for adventure and new things. Sometimes fun and excitement come with unanticipated danger and consequences. An intriguing adventure set in Hawaii is all set to unravel as Xlibris releases The Aloha Diary, the new book authored by D.B. Cunningham.

In this book, readers will meet Leda Swann, a long time systems engineer whose career has settled into a predictable routine. Things change when she accepts a new job on a telemedicine project in Honolulu. Hoping for adventure, Leda finds herself seduced by the astounding beauty of the island of Oahu. There, she discovers many new cultures, the local hospitality and its exotic food. There is another side to paradise, however, and she must confront the dark and sinister side of government contracting. With the pressure and temptations surrounding her, will Leda be able to stay out of trouble? Read the book to find out.
