

California State University Northridge

Did
You Know...

An exquisite collection of Chinese antiquities spanning more than 6,000 years of history is on display in the Oviatt Library. The exhibit, Possessing the Past: Mysteries of Ancient Chinese Art, is the first public showing of The Tseng Collection. It includes more than 100 objects of archaic jade, an assortment of ancient bronze, Neolithic pottery, earthenware and Stone Age tools. The exhibit, free and open to the public, will be on display through Aug. 27.

Cal State Northridge, under the auspices of three award-winning composer/professors—Daniel Kessner, Liviu Marinescu and Dan Hosken—hosted one of classical music’s most important events: the April regional conference of the Society of Composers, Inc. (SCI). The works of contemporary composers from across the country were performed during a prestigious three-day series of Northridge recital hall concerts.

Seven Cal State Northridge students have received recognition as outstanding national campus leaders in the 2004 edition of Who’s Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. The students were selected based on academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and potential for continued success.

Acting jointly with the Los Angeles City Council, the city’s Commission on the Status of Women honored President Jolene Koester with its 2004 Pioneer Women Award in March during national Women’s History Month. Koester, one of 15 women selected by the commission and the City Council, was cited for her “exemplary record of commitment and numerous significant contributions to the support, protection and awareness of the valuable accomplishments of women in our society.”

Vol. III · No. 10

Published by Office of Public Relations and Strategic Communications

(818) 677-2130