

Dr. Hull's research encompasses three complementary themes in anthropological archaeology: (1) the cultural impact of colonial encounters on native people of North America and the process of European colonialism within native communities more generally; (2) the interplay of demography and culture, with particular emphasis on small-scale, hunting and gathering societies; and (3) identity and ethnogenesis in pre-literate societies, including how people assert and defend their identity through material culture.

.....
Communication services (sign language, interpreters, notetakers, real-time captionists or assistive listening devices) are available for this event. Requests for services must be submitted at least five (5) working days in advance.

The Department of Anthropology

College of Social and Behavioral Sciences

PRESENTS

Kathleen Hull

Associate Professor of Anthropology
University of California, Merced

Native Mourning Ritual and Community

in the Greater Los Angeles Area

THURSDAY

Feb. 18
4:00pm

Whitsett Room • Sierra Hall 451

CSUN | CALIFORNIA
STATE UNIVERSITY
NORTHridge

FUNDED BY THE DISTINGUISHED VISITING SPEAKERS PROGRAM

This program is free of charge. Parking is available in the B3 structure via Booth 2 at Prairie St. & Darby Ave. for $6.00. For additional information, call the Anthropology Department at 818.677.3331.