In the show Mary Lynn (best known as Chloe from Fox's hit TV series "24") talks about getting knocked up by a hunky stranger, becoming the good wife and mother, blowing all her cash, and taking the bizarre advice to invest in miniature horses to save her marriage.

"It's a comedic dive into my personal life and the nature or lack of communication that happens in marriage and family. I wrestle with how to keep my marriage together while being seduced into sensual encounters with an emotionally and spiritually available yoga instructor. I learn more about intimacy from a virtual stranger in a healing session than I do at home but come to realize that learning how to be a good mother and a wife takes more than yoga advice, it means taking responsibility for my own behaviour"

A Performance to Benefit

59TH TADW TEENAGEDRAMA WORKSHOP

For 59 years, the Teenage Drama Workshop (TADW) at Cal State Northridge has provided unparalleled opportunities in the theatre for students in middle and high school. This 6-week summer program is much more than a day camp for kids who enjoy acting. It is a theatre conservatory that, while producing professional quality productions, also instills in all the participants a sense of personal worth and belonging while teaching the importance of teamwork and the value of every member of the team.

The arts address universal hopes and needs. When a teenager is able to explore her/his identity in the safety of such a nurturing environment, it literally changes her/his life. It happens every summer. This is the legacy that TADW is committed to preserving.

Help us provide this opportunity to as many deserving teens as possible!

Your tax-deductible donation will help us provide scholarships to under-privileged youth in the Greater Los Angeles area. We work to admit every student that wants to attend regardless of their financial status.
