

Inside:

- 2 Doctorate of Education Program
- 2 Flashbacks
- 3 FYI
- 4 Calendar

'Dear Mr. President' Project Gives CSUN Community Voice

Mobile Video Booth Also Serves as Public Art Piece

Do you have something you want to say to the next president of the United States of America? Do you have a personal story or concern you want to share about this historic election? Faculty, staff and students have until Nov. 6 to visit Cal State Northridge's own version of the MTV-styled "confessional" booth.

The confessional booth is part of cinema and television arts lecturer Geri Ulrey's project: Dear Mr. President. The project involves the use of a mobile video booth located in a miniature house that travels around campus. Faculty, staff, students and visitors to campus are invited to record a video message addressed to the next president of the United States of America. Participants are encouraged to share personal stories, feelings and thoughts about their lives. The video messages will be organized, streamed from the project's Web site and mailed to the White House.

"My desire is to engage with young people regarding the political process," said Ulrey, who collaborated with the Art Department and several student organizations in designing the project and the house. "I believe that it is really important for people to hear themselves speak."

Photo by Lee Chiro
Geri Ulrey, Cinema and Television Arts Department lecturer, instructs student Kemi George on how to balance the lighting for the camera used to record Dear Mr. President project letters. The project will be recording messages on campus at various locations until Nov. 6.

The video house is open now through Nov. 6 at various locations on campus. Ulrey, the project producer and director, said the project is non-partisan. She plans to send the footage to the campaigns of both Sens. John McCain and Barack Obama, no matter who wins on Nov. 4.

The project was funded through a grant from CSUN's Judge Julian Beck Learning-Centered Instructional Projects. Beck grants are awarded to faculty to provide students with opportunities to actively engage in and ultimately become responsible for their own learning. Projects must be completed in one year and all faculty and staff are eligible to submit projects, either individually or as a group.

Ulrey said students are involved at all levels in the project, from inviting visitors to tape a message to editing and uploading the messages.

"This is an opportunity to bring art to large numbers of people who wouldn't ordinarily have the opportunity, and to involve students on all levels," said Kim Abeles, professor of art. She said art students helped design the Victorian style miniature house as an on-campus public art piece. The idea for the house design came out of the notion that individuals are most comfortable talking about issues in cozy chairs in their own homes, she added.

"It's portable, yet it's also a cozy place," Abeles added.

So far, nearly a hundred students, faculty and staff have taped messages with themes ranging from concerns about the economy to healthcare.

During his taped message, student Shahar Aframian said he was concerned about taxes, gas prices and the economy.

"I think those issues are more important than Iraq and the war," he added.

For more information about the project, visit www.dearmrprezident08.org. ■

CSUN's Emergency Response Proven Effective in Crisis

Public Safety a Partnership with Faculty, Staff and Students

Whether responding to fires, bomb threats or a shooter on campus, Cal State Northridge has an all-hazard emergency operations plan. But that plan is more effective when the campus community is informed about emergency preparedness.

That was the message CSUN Police Chief Anne Glavin conveyed in the wake of the wildfires and the Metrolink crash that recently impacted faculty, staff and students, some of whom were forced to evacuate as fires advanced and lives were lost and other injured in the tragic train crash. "We do have an interest in what's going on because our CSUN community is affected," Glavin said. "Public safety in general is a partnership with our community and the people we serve."

In the recent incidents, CSUN turned to its Emergency Operations Plan, which adheres to federal and state guidelines for responding to emergencies. The university's Crisis Action Team, which includes President Jolene Koester, the President's Cabinet and Chief Glavin, determines the next step, for example, whether or not the Emergency Operations Center (EOC) should be activated. After the Sept. 12 Chatsworth train accident, CSUN police responded to an LAPD request to supply officers to assist with crash scene security. CSUN Police worked with University administrators all weekend to keep them informed about CSUN victims and provide assistance to faculty, staff, students and even alumni.

Last week, due to transportation issues as a result of the fires and its impact on the CSUN population, campus leadership cancelled afternoon and evening classes on Oct. 13. Physical Plant Management was directed to close outside air intakes to campus buildings to minimize the impact of the smoke on indoor air quality.

"We (campus leadership) have to take everything into consideration in an emergency," Glavin said. But she recommends that faculty and staff learn about campus emergency response procedures.

"There is a certain amount of personal responsibility to make yourself aware of emergency response procedures," the chief said. The Department of Public Safety and the university have a variety of workshops and material that outline procedures. New employees are required to attend an Office of Human Resources orientation that includes information on emergency preparedness and other services. Public Safety has created an emergency operations desk reference brochure, available online, that addresses the Emergency Response continued on page 2.

California State University
Northridge

18111 Nordhoff Street, Northridge, California 91330-8242

Nonprofit Org.
U.S. Postage
PAID
California State University
Northridge

CSUN Enrolls First Class in Doctorate of Education Program

Goal to Shape Administrators Who Support Innovative Ideas

Cal State Northridge's Michael D. Eisner College of Education this fall enrolled its first cohort of 24 students in its new Doctoral Program in Education Leadership with an eye toward shaping K-12 administrators who are willing to think outside the box and explore and support innovative ideas in the classroom.

University officials are taking that concept one step further, and have designed a similar program for community college administrators. It is currently accepting applications for a program that starts in fall 2009.

"CSUN is known for preparing outstanding teachers, but we need the administrators who can enable them. This program is going to do just that," said Philip Rusche, former dean of the college and now head of the doctoral program.

In 2005, the California legislature authorized the California State University system to offer an education doctorate. The first CSU doctoral programs launched last year.

When Eisner College of Education officials began designing CSUN's program a couple of years ago, they called on community college and K-12 leaders, members of the community and Northridge faculty from across the campus to provide input on how the university's program should look.

Philip Rusche, former dean of the Michael D. Eisner College of Education and now head of the college's doctoral program.

What they heard over and over again was that the program needed to be divided into two separate cohorts; one that served K-12 administrators and another that served community college leaders.

"Our external advisory committee felt there were distinct differences in expectations of those two respected communities, and to serve them effectively we needed to design separate programs for their administrators," Rusche said.

As a result, CSUN received approval from the CSU Chancellor's Office and the Western Association of Schools and Colleges Accrediting Commission for Senior Colleges and Universities to offer a two-pronged doctoral program that serves two distinct communities: K-12 leaders and community college leaders.

"We are the only institution in the CSU thus far that has created two separate cohorts," Rusche said.

Former Pierce College President Tom Oliver served on the advisory committee. He said the two school systems serve different students who have different needs. "There are different cultural experiences on their campus, different budget expectations and their leaders have to deal with different political climates," he said.

Rusche said Oliver is an example of the type of faculty who are and will be teaching in CSUN's doctoral program. The program is drawing faculty from within the college's Department of Educational Leadership and other departments across campus as well as the K-12 and community college communities. New professors with appropriate backgrounds also have been added to the full-time faculty.

"The idea is to create school leaders who do not think that there is only one answer to every problem," Rusche said. "The vision of this program is to create a network of administrators who are committed to leading profound change and improved student achievement."

To find out more about CSUN's Doctoral Program in Education Leadership, visit its Web site at <http://www.csun.edu/education/doctorate/index.html>. ■

Emergency Response...

continued from page 1.

unique needs of each segment of the campus community.

In the wake of the earthquake in July, Public Safety launched a "train the trainer" program taught by Kit Espinosa, Public Safety's emergency management and preparedness coordinator, and Environmental Health and Safety and Risk Management. Each department has been asked to send at least one representative to a special training to teach other members of his or her department about emergency preparedness and earthquake response protocol, she said. In the event of an emergency, Public Safety has also designated a building or floor marshal for each building on campus. The marshal assists in the safe evacuation of a building and reports building status to the emergency personnel in charge.

Espinosa has recently completed a brochure that outlines all of CSUN's emergency communication and notification systems. There are more than a dozen communication systems available during an emergency, among them the campus carillon, a outside public address system; a telephone alert system that displays emergency audio or text messages on office phones; and the Connect-ED mass communications system, which allows campus emergency personnel to send voice, e-mail and text messages to faculty, staff and students.

On Nov. 13, Public Safety will coordinate the campus' participation in the Great Southern California ShakeOut. The event is expected to be the largest earthquake drill in U.S. history. The drill will give the university an opportunity to practice its response to an earthquake.

"This exercise was developed to inspire people to get prepared," Espinosa said.

For more information, visit www-admn.csun.edu/publicsafety/emergency/index.htm. ■

Flashbacks—CSUN's Golden Fifty The Past and Present of Cal State Northridge

Oviatt Evolving

When the campus first opened in 1956 as the Valley branch of Cal State L.A., the space that served as the library was located in bungalow "J," on Lindley Avenue. By 1957, the library's collections had expanded and the campus needed more room, so library officials rented space in a former meat market on Reseda Boulevard. The library's collections were growing so fast that in 1958, campus officials used a hayloft at Devonshire Downs for storage. On March 3, 1959, the first permanent library—called "South Library"—was opened. Initially, the 75,000 volumes of the library only occupied two floors but the collection expanded until it completely filled all four floors of the building.

Plans were developed to build an entirely new and separate library.

However, those plans were nearly thwarted as the state legislature withdrew funding due to the upheavals and protests on campus during spring 1969. Newly appointed San Fernando Valley State College President James Cleary moved quickly to restore credibility with the legislature and state college system. He was rewarded by lawmakers' reinstatement of funding for the library.

Because of Delmar T. Oviatt's essential role in establishing the college as its first executive officer and an "acting" president, college officials decided to name the new library, which would serve as a centerpiece and icon for the campus, after the educator. The groundbreaking ceremony for the Oviatt Library was held on May 19, 1971. It was dedicated on Oct. 24, 1973.

Designed by architect Leo A. Daly, at a cost of $7.4 million, Oviatt

Delmar T. Oviatt Library groundbreaking

Library had 137,896 square feet and a seating capacity of 1,674. With its wonderful columns, the library called to mind a Greek temple and its location at the heart of the campus was entirely fitting for this indispensable grouping of books, special collections and extensive archives. The columns of the Oviatt were the logo for the university for many years. The library's Automated Storage and Retrieval System, completed in 1991, was the first of its kind.

Over the years, the Oviatt Library has added 96,816 square feet through the construction of east and west wings. It was badly damaged and closed after the 1994 Northridge earthquake but as the mythical Phoenix rose again, so did the library, after extensive repairs to the core and complete rebuilding of both wings. Today, the library contains 1.4 million volumes including 1.1 million books, 34,500 online journals and 1,600 print journals. Film and television crews frequently choose its stately presence as a backdrop for their productions. As the largest library in the San Fernando Valley, the Oviatt Library is a precious resource for the campus and the community.

—Julia Venkateswaran

FYI

Events

Thursday, Oct. 23

Gender & Sexual Orientation

The Richard W. Smith Lecture in Cultural Studies in the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences will present "Gender & Sexual Orientation: Biology? Social Influence? Free Choice? What the Latest Research has Found," a lecture by Milton Diamond, professor of anatomy, biochemistry and physiology at the John A. Burns School of Medicine, University of Hawaii. The event is scheduled at 7 p.m., Sierra Hall 451, Whitsett Room. fmi-x4777

Wednesday, Nov. 5

Trembling Before G-d Film

The Center for Ethics and Values and the Center for Sex and Gender Research will present the "Trembling Before G-d" film, followed by a discussion. The screening is co-sponsored by the Lesbian Gay Bisexual Transgender Alliance, the Liberal Studies Program, the Queer Studies Program, the Student Organization for Art and Politics, and the Vern and Bonnie Bullough Endowment for Sex and Gender Studies at the Oviatt Library. The screening will be 7 p.m.-10 p.m. at the Oviatt Library, Presentation Room. fmi-Jacob Hale, jacob.hale@csun.edu or x7202.

Thursday, Nov. 6

Why is L.A. Traffic Such a Nightmare?

The CSUN Communication Association and the Department of Communication Studies will sponsor a lecture by Paul Mason Fotsch (Communication Studies) about his book, "Watching the Traffic Go By: Transportation and Isolation in Urban America," 7 p.m., Manzanita Hall 240, Richard Aronstam Library. fmi-Paul Fotsch, pfotsch@csun.edu or x2853.

Friday, Nov. 7 and Saturday, Nov. 8

Media Arts Festival

The CSU Summer Arts will present the 18th annual Media Arts Festival, a film, video and interactive media competition showcasing the best work of the CSU. In addition to the competition and screenings, there will be professional development seminars for faculty. Seminar topics include animation, producing, music videos, and screenwriting. The deadline to register is Wednesday, Oct. 29. fmi-Joanne Sharp, jsharp@calstate.edu.

Public Meetings

USU Board of Directors

Meets 1 p.m.
Monday, Oct. 20
Grand Salon, USU

Associated Students Finance Committee

Meets 2 p.m.
Monday, Oct. 20, 27
Associated Students Office

For Your Information publishes announcements of events, public meetings, notices, classes and deadlines. Submission deadline is noon on Monday, one week before the next issue.

The deadline for the November 3 issue is Monday, October 27. We strive to include all items submitted by deadline occurring until the next issue. Submit future items by e-mailing them to pubinfo@csun.edu, sending them to mail drop 8242 or faxing them to (818) 677-4909. E-mail is the preferred method of submitting.

Note: fmi-means for more information. ■

Associated Students Senate

Meets 2 p.m.
Tuesday, Oct. 21, 28
USU Grand Salon

Personnel Planning and Review

Meets 2 p.m.-5 p.m.
Wednesday, Oct. 22
University Hall 277

Foundation Board

Meets 6 p.m.
Wednesday, Oct. 22
fmi-Judy Landy, x4197

Faculty Senate

Meets 2 p.m.-4:30 p.m.
Thursday, Oct. 30
Oviatt Library Presentation Room, room 81

Educational Resource Committee

Meets 2 p.m.-4 p.m.
Tuesday, Nov. 4
University Hall 211

Notices

Tell Your Story Blog

In celebration of CSUN's 50th anniversary, CSUN invites students, faculty and especially alumni, to share memories of CSUN at the "Tell Your Story" blog at <http://blogs.csun.edu/50>. Topics include student groups, parking, most memorable moments, music and places to relax.

"Hang it Up" Initiative

The CSUN Police Department is conducting an educational safety and enforcement campaign, "Hang it Up," to inform drivers about two new laws dealing with use of wireless telephones while driving that went into effect, July 1, 2008.

Registration for Winter Term

Students may now register online for winter term classes at CSUN until Jan. 2. The winter term runs Jan. 2-Jan. 18, 2009, between the fall and spring semesters. The Tseng College administers winter term, which allows students and anyone in the community to take academic-credit classes in a compressed format, as long as they meet individual class prerequisites. fmi-The Tseng College, <http://tsengcollege.csun.edu/winter.html> or x2504.

2009 CSUN Faculty Retreat

The 2009 CSUN Faculty Retreat, "Fit and Fabulous: Foundations for the Future" will be held Jan. 12 and 13, 2009 at the Ventura Beach Marriott. Proposals for presentations and poster sessions are due on Friday, Oct. 24. Information and proposal forms are available at www.csun.edu/senate/retreat.html. Interested faculty should contact their college deans' offices. fmi-Heidi Wolfbauer, X3263 or heiduw@csun.edu.

Service on Committees and Boards

Faculty interested in being considered for election or appointment to positions in faculty governance, on the Faculty Senate standing or advisory committees, or to various all-university committees and boards, visit: www.csun.edu/senate/volunteer.doc. For the spring 2009 faculty elections, forms are due by Jan. 23.

Classes

Joy of Learning

Faculty Development will present "Students' Joy of Learning: The Role of Academic Self-Confidence," facilitated by Mark Stevens (Counseling Services), 2 p.m.-3 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 21, Sierra Hall 439, CIELO Conference Room. fmi-Faculty Development, x6536, or facdev@csun.edu.

Motor Vehicle 101

The Physical Plant Management Auto Shop and the Department of Public Safety, Crime Prevention and Community Relations Unit will present, "Motor Vehicle Safety 101!" This "brown bag" lunch-time training course will provide a basic, hands-on approach to vehicle safety. Participants will learn the fundamentals of changing a tire safely on the side of the road as well as basic motor vehicle crime prevention tips. The course is scheduled for Wednesday, Oct. 22, 12 p.m.-1 p.m. at the Physical Plant Management Training Room "A." To register, contact Daniel Foster at daniel.foster@csun.edu or x5820.

Managing Transitions

The Professional Development Program will conduct a session, "Managing Transitions: Personal Reflections on Organizational Change," presented by Sylvia Alva, dean, College of Health and Human Development. Alva will share her reflections on both personal and organizational transitions as she has recently changed her position and her CSU campus. The session will be Wednesday, Oct. 22 and Thursday, Oct. 23, Oviatt Library 16, Human Resources Training Room, garden level. fmi-Lauren Nile, Lauren.nile@csun.edu.

Race in the Classroom

Faculty Development will present "Talking about Race in the Classroom in the Age of 'Racelessness': Sharing Dilemmas and Strategies," facilitated by Susan Auerbach (Educational Leadership & Policy Studies), from 11 a.m.-12:30 p.m., Monday, Oct. 27, Sierra Hall 439, CIELO Conference Room. fmi-Faculty Development, x6536 or facdev@csun.edu.

Emergency Preparedness

The CSUN Community Emergency Response Team (CERT) Council will conduct a Basic CERT Level 1 class. The class will be Wednesday, Oct. 22 and Wednesday, Oct. 29, 9 a.m.-11:30 a.m. at the Oviatt Library, Presentation Room. fmi-Rudy Quitarano, x2401 or rudy.uitarano@csun.edu.

Leadership Seminar

The Professional Development Program will conduct a seminar, "The Primary Ingredients of Success: Communication, Communication, Communication." Presenters include Michael McManus, assistant vice president of Marketing and Communications and Lauren Nile, manager of the Professional Development Programs. The seminar is scheduled on Tuesday, Oct. 28, 10 a.m.-12 p.m. at the Oviatt Library, Presentation Room. fmi-Lauren Nile, lauren.nile@csun.edu.

Gender Identity, the Law and Higher Education

Faculty Development will present "Let's Have Lunch: Creating a 'Safe Place to Learn'—Gender Identity, the Law and Higher Education," facilitated by Greg Knotts (Elementary Education), 11 a.m.-12:30 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 30, Orange Grove Bistro. fmi-Faculty Development Programs, x6536 or facdev@csun.edu.

Dialogue with the President

The Professional Development Program will present a workshop, "Why Capable People Struggle in Leadership Positions," a lecture by President Jolene Koester, and Barbara Kaufman, president of ROI Consulting Group. This session will help participants identify skills needed to maximize effectiveness and overall success as a leader at CSUN. The workshop will be Thursday, Oct. 30, 1 p.m.-2:30 p.m. at the Satellite Student Union, Shoshone Room.

Achieving Effective and Sustainable Results

The Professional Development Program will present a session, "Achieving Effective and Sustainable Results: Managing Change and Conflict." The speaker, C. Richard Barnes, president of C. Richard Barnes & Associates, will provide guidance in effectively managing both real and imagined conflict in the workplace. The session will be Monday, Nov. 3, 10 a.m.-12 p.m. at the Satellite Student Union, Shoshone Room.

Deadlines

Probationary Faculty Support

Academic Affairs requests applications for the CSUN Probationary Faculty Support Program. This program provides funding for three units of reassigned time for Spring 2009 only. It is designed to assist tenure-track faculty in meeting the qualifications for retention, tenure or promotion through three units of reassigned time. The RFP can be found at http://www.csun.edu/facdev/grants_home.htm. The deadline for spring 2009 is Monday, Oct. 27 at 4 p.m., Sierra Hall 437, CIELO Conference Room. fmi-Kelly Kroeker, x6536 or Kelly.kroeker@csun.edu.

In Brief

CSUN Featured in Princeton Review's 'Best Business Schools'

Cal State Northridge is an outstanding business school, according to The Princeton Review. The New York-based education services company features CSUN's College of Business and Economics in the just-published 2009 edition of its "Best 296 Business Schools."

"Best 296 Business Schools" has two-page profiles of the schools and their MBA programs with write-ups on their academics, student life and admissions, plus ratings for their academics, selectivity and career placement services.

In the profile on Northridge, the Princeton Review editors describe CSUN's MBA program as providing its students with "solid preparation" in marketing, general management, teamwork, communication/interpersonal skills, presentation skills and quantitative skills.

"Best 296 Business Schools" is one of nearly 200 Princeton Review titles published by Random House. The line includes annual guides to the best law schools and medical schools, plus guides to grad school admission exams and application essays. The Princeton Review also is known for its college and career guidebooks, its test-prep courses and other education services. The company is not affiliated with Princeton University and it is not a magazine.

Cal State Northridge's College of Business and Economics is home to several nationally recognized programs where students gain valuable hands-on experience working alongside faculty members and business professionals in a variety of areas. ■

CSUN Alumna Lectures on Eating Disorders

Carolyn Costin, '78 (College of Education), an expert on eating disorders and director of the Eating Disorder Center of California, gave a presentation on Oct. 2 to students and faculty from the Michael D. Eisner College of Education and the College of Health and Human Development. She discussed ways to identify eating disorders and findings from her research.

Photo by Lee Choo

Calendar

The A.S. Ticket Office in the University Student Union sells tickets to many events on campus, except for some held by outside groups. The Ticket Office is open from 10 a.m.–6 p.m. Mon.–Fri. For prices not given, call (818) 677-2488. To park on campus for performances, athletic events, lectures and other activities, guests must purchase a $5 parking permit.

Art and Exhibits

For gallery info, call (818) 677-2156. Main gallery hours: Mon. through Sat. 12-4 p.m. and Thursdays noon–8 p.m. Admission is free unless specified. For library exhibits, call (818) 677-2285.

'Eclectic Dreams'

Exhibition of work from CSUN Illustration Club. Faculty Advisor: Laurel Long. Runs through Thu., Oct. 23. West Gallery, Art and Design Center

Christo and Jeanne-Claude: The Tom Golden Collection

In 2001, Tom Golden, an art collector, donated his collection of over 100 works by renowned artists Christo and Jeanne-Claude to the Sonoma County Museum, which is currently circulating collages, prints, photographs and objects. Opening reception: Fri., Oct. 24, 7–9 p.m. Runs through Sat., Dec. 13. Main Gallery

Lynelle Miliate

Master of Fine Arts candidate, photography. Fri., Oct. 24 through Thu., Oct. 30. West Gallery, Art and Design Center

Art the Vote: Graphic Design Student Exhibition

Faculty Advisor: Paula DiMarco. Fri., Oct. 31 through Thu., Nov. 6. West Gallery, Art and Design Center

▲ Fifty and Fabulous

California State University, Northridge/San Fernando State College at the Half Century Mark. Runs through Aug. 2, 2009. C. K. and Teresa Tseng Gallery, Oviatt Library

Bianchi Planetarium

For ticket info, (818) 677-2488 or visit www.csun.edu/physics/planetarium. Telescope viewing follows second show.

"Autumn Sky Show" and "Arctic Adventure: Chasing a Total Solar Eclipse in the Land of Midnight Sun"

Fri., Oct. 24, 7:30 p.m.

Athletics (home games):

▲ Men's Basketball

11/3 La Verne 7:05 p.m.

Men's Soccer

10/25 Cal Poly 2:30 p.m.
10/29 UCSB 2:30 p.m.

Men's Swimming

11/1 UCSB noon

Women's Basketball

11/1 Love and Basketball 2 p.m.

▲ Women's Soccer

10/30 UC Riverside 2:30 p.m.
11/2 CSU Fullerton 2 p.m.

▲ Women's Swimming

11/1 UCSB noon

▲ Women's Volleyball

10/31 UC Riverside 7 p.m.
11/1 UC Irvine 7 p.m.

Cinematheque

Screenings are free and take place in the Alan and Elaine Armer Theater on the first floor of Manzanita Hall at the southwest corner of campus. Seating not guaranteed. For more info, call (818) 677-3192 or see www.cinematheque.csun.edu.

Commentaries on American Cinema

Guest: film historian Rudy Behlmer. Wed., Oct. 22, 7 p.m.

'Le Corbeau'

Directed by Henri-Georges Clouzot. Thu., Oct. 23, 6 p.m.

'Laura'

Directed by Otto Preminger. Thu., Oct. 23, 8 p.m.

'Paths of Glory'

Directed by Stanley Kubrick. Reel Dilemmas series. Fri., Oct. 24, 7 p.m.

Selling Your Story in 60 Seconds

Seminar with guest Michael Hauge: script consultant, screenwriter, author and lecturer. Tue., Oct. 28, 7 p.m.

'A Woman of Independent Means'

Mini-series directed by Robert Greenwald. Guest: Elizabeth Forsythe Hailey (Oct. 30) Wed., Oct. 29 and Thu., Oct. 30, 7 p.m.

Music

Admission to all music events (unless otherwise specified): $10 general, $7 faculty, staff and seniors, $5 students.

Rossetti Piano Quartet

Wed., Oct. 22, 8 p.m. Plaza del Sol Performance Hall $5–$40

Faculty Artist Series

Andrew Malloy, trombone soloist. Mon., Oct. 27, 8 p.m. Music Recital Hall

An Evening of Small Group Jazz

Gary Pratt, director. Thu., Oct. 30, 8 p.m. Music Recital Hall

Theater/Performance

▲ Paul Taylor Dance Company

One of the most exquisite, admired, and popular ensembles in the world. Fri., Oct. 24, 8 p.m. Plaza del Sol Performance Hall $36–$45

Le Nozze di Figaro

Mozart's beloved opera (The Marriage of Figaro) is a comedy of intrigue, betrayal and forgiveness. Sung in Italian with English supertitles. Directed by David Scott and Judy Scott. Musical director/conductor David Aks. Opera composed by Mozart. Fri., Oct. 31, 8 p.m. Sat., Nov. 1, 8 p.m. Sun., Nov. 2, 3 p.m. Fri., Nov. 7, 8 p.m. Sat., Nov. 8, 8 p.m. Sun., Nov. 9, 3 p.m. Campus Theatre, Nordhoff Hall 100 $8–$20 is published biweekly during the academic year for the university community of California State University, Northridge. Copies are available without charge and on request. Direct inquiries to: Managing Editor Public Relations and Strategic Communications 18111 Nordhoff St., Northridge, CA 91330-8242.

@CSUN

voice (818) 677-2130 / fax (818) 677-4909 e-mail pubinfo@csun.edu Web site: www.csun.edu/pubrels/@csun

Jolene Koester, President
Vance T. Peterson, V.P. for University Advancement
Michael T. McManus Asst. V.P., Marketing and Communications

Editorial Team
Shanté Morgan, Acting Managing Editor
Brenda Roberts, Editor, Northridge Magazine
Carmen Ramos Chandler, Director of News and Information
Lee Choo, Photographer
Tatsuo Kumagai, Graphic Designer
Randal Scot Thomson, Director of Publications
Eve Green, Student Intern
Arman Sadri, Student Intern

