

Department of Finance, Real Estate, and Insurance

Honors Courses

In order to provide additional educational opportunities to high-GPA students, the Department of Finance, Real Estate, and Insurance offers honors sections of core finance courses. These courses are designed to go beyond the basic financial instruction and provide additional opportunities for application and analysis.

We are offering the following honors sections in Fall 2009:

FIN 432BH – Investments, TR 11:00am-12:15pm, Professor Dow

FIN 435BH – TBD

FIN 437BH – Advanced Topics in Finance, R 2:00pm-4:45pm, Professor Covrig

Advantages of these classes:

- Smaller class sizes
- More discussion and application
- Opportunities to interact with other outstanding students

FIN 437BH in particular provides a special opportunity. Students in this section manage part of the university's endowment, making decisions on which stocks to buy and sell.

Eligibility: The honors sections are open to honors students and non-honors students whose GPA meets the minimum requirement. Students can apply through the Finance Department office (JH 3125). Please contact the Finance Department office or the individual instructor for further information.
