2007 -2008 Scholarship Opportunities

Introduction

In 1909, Ellen H. Richards founded the American Home Economics Association. Ms. Richards was the first female graduate and professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and an activist for consumer education, nutrition, child protection, industrial safety, public health, career education, women's rights; purity of air, food, and water, and application of scientific and management principles to the family.

Today, known as the American Association of Family and Consumer Sciences, members strive to improve the quality and standards of individual and family life by providing educational programs, influencing public policy and through communication. More than 8,000 members work to empower individuals, strengthen families and enable communities.

AAFCS is the only national organization representing family and consumer sciences professionals across practice areas and content specializations. Our members provide guidance and practical knowledge about things in everyday life so students and consumers can make sound decisions and enjoy a healthy, productive and more fulfilling life.

The California Affiliate of the American Association of Family and Consumer Sciences is please to offer scholarship opportunities to high school graduates, community college students, 4 –year college/university students, graduate students, and technical school students interested in the wide array of opportunities in our profession. In addition, scholarship opportunities are also offered to FACS/home economics teachers interested in continue their education.

The following is a listing of potential scholarship opportunities for students and teachers majoring in one of the following subject areas:

Food Science
Dietetics
Nutrition
Food Service
Hospitality
Human, Child and Family Development
Apparel, Fashion and Textiles Services
Housing and Interiors
Consumer Economics
Management and Resources
Family and Consumer Science Education.

The California Affiliate compiled this information and has tried to make all of the contents as accurate and as correct as possible. Please carefully review the various scholarships and the specific requirements. It is the applicant's responsibility to clarify questions and deadlines, and to submit completed application forms and required materials by the various deadlines. Membership information may be found on the AAFCS website (www.aafcs.org) under "Membership".

If you have questions or need help, please contact the specific person listed in each district or contact Dr. Betty Knopf, CA Affiliate President, at 916-944-3553 or fpstude@aol.com (put "scholarship information" on subject line).
