Serving more than 42,000 students each year, CSUN is one of the largest universities in the United States, and it has an impact to match its size. Money Magazine recently named CSUN one of the top ten values in all of higher education, and the Social Mobility Index ranked CSUN fifth in the nation for elevating its students' economic and social well-being. CSUN ranks 10th in the country in awarding bachelor's degrees to underrepresented minority students, fifth nationally in awarding master's degrees to Hispanic students and enrolls the largest number of deaf and hard-of-hearing students of any U.S. state university. CSUN's 171 academic programs and engaged centers enjoy international recognition for excellence. CSUN currently partners with more than 100 institutions of higher education in 22 countries around the globe and attracts the largest international student population of any U.S. master's level institution. Situated on a 356-acre park-like setting in the heart of Los Angeles' San Fernando Valley, the campus features modern educational buildings and world-class LEED Gold-certified performing arts and recreational facilities recognized as among the best in the country. CSUN is designated as a Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI) and an Asian American, Native American, Pacific Islander Serving Institution (AANAPISI) and we value the diversity of all of our students and the campus community. CSUN is a welcoming university that champions accessibility, academic excellence and student success.

CSUN's Commitment to You:

CSUN is strongly committed to achieving excellence through teaching, scholarship, active learning and diversity. Our values include a respect for all people, building alliances with the community and the encouragement of innovation, experimentation and creativity.

As an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, CSUN strives to create a community in which a diverse population can work, teach and learn in an atmosphere of civility and respect for the rights of each individual. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, gender, gender identity/expression, sexual orientation, age, disability, genetic information, medical information, marital status, or veteran status. Qualifications:

The Department of Criminology and Justice Studies seeks a dedicated scholar and instructor who will bring their expertise to our newly created BA in Criminology and Justice Studies. We seek applications from candidates who demonstrate expertise in law enforcement/policing. Priority will be given to candidates with a record of scholarship and teaching in the area of race/ethnicity and/or gender and crime or criminal justice. Candidates should have demonstrated potential for excellence in teaching, scholarly research and service to community and/or profession. Experience in building ties to community, developing and supervising internships, and/or securing external grants is highly desired. Applicants must demonstrate ability to effectively work with a diverse student population. The successful applicant is committed to educational equity in a multicultural setting and to promoting and fostering a learning environment that is supportive of individuals from diverse backgrounds and with diverse perspectives. Ph.D. in Criminal Justice or other related social science field is required by August 22, 2017. The J.D. alone is not sufficient for this position.

CSUN is a Learning Centered University. The successful candidate will be expected to join faculty and staff in a commitment to active learning, to the assessment of learning outcomes, and to multiple pathways that enable students to graduate.

At time of appointment, the successful candidate, if not a U.S. citizen, must have authorization from the Bureau of Citizenship and Immigration Services to work in the United States.

Evidence of terminal degree required at time of hire.

At time of appointment, the successful candidate, if not a U.S. citizen, must have authorization from the Bureau of Citizenship and Immigration Services to work in the United States.

Responsibilities:

Primary teaching responsibilities will involve teaching courses in law enforcement and security as well as criminal justice and/or juvenile justice systems. Course load may include teaching courses in gender and crime, gender and criminal justice, and/or diversity in crime. Courses related to other substantive interests may also be included in course load. The normal teaching load is 12 semester units per semester with opportunities for reduction in teaching load related to funded research. There will be a reduced teaching load during the first two years of appointment. The successful candidate will also be expected to produce scholarly publications, participate in professional conferences, contribute to department, college, and university committees, advise students, and connect to community-based agencies in crime and criminal justice.

Application Deadline:

Screening of applications will begin October 14, 2016. Priority will be given to applicants who meet the screening deadline. However, the position will remain open until filled. Applicants should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, a sample of scholarly work, and three current letters of recommendation to the address below. In later phases of the search process, applicants may be requested to provide verification of terminal degrees, licenses and certificates.

Inquiries and applications should be addressed to:
