Qualifications:

Applicants must have an earned doctoral degree in Computer Science or a closely related field from an accredited institution. ABD candidates will be considered, but must have completed the doctoral degree by August 18, 2020. Teaching excellence and research potential with strong communication skills and the interest and ability to teach a broad range of courses in the areas of computer science and information technology are necessary qualifications. Specialization in Cybersecurity, Computer Graphics, Systems, Computational Data Science, Cloud Computing, or Software Engineering is desired. Excellent candidates with specialization in other areas will be considered. Applicants must demonstrate the ability and commitment to effectively work, teach and mentor a diverse student population. CSUN is a Learning Centered University with a research and scholarly activity component. The successful candidate will be expected to join faculty and staff in a commitment to active learning, to the assessment of learning outcomes, and to multiple pathways that enable students to graduate. Evidence of degree(s) required at time of hire.

At time of appointment, the successful candidate, if not a U.S. citizen, must have authorization from the United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) to work in the United States.

Responsibilities:

Teaching of graduate and undergraduate classes both in the areas of specialization and in core curriculum. The normal teaching load is 12 units per semester. The teaching load may be reduced for faculty actively engaged in supervising graduate research and developing a research program. Each faculty member is expected to teach both evening and day courses. Faculty are expected to perform the usual curricular and administrative duties associated with an academic appointment, to engage in research, publish in refereed conference proceedings and journals, and to demonstrate an ongoing commitment to effective teaching, research, and scholarly activities. Faculty are expected to work with students on research activities, community based projects, or other extracurricular activities. For the purposes of reappointment, tenure, and promotion, emphasis will be placed on teaching effectiveness, scholarly and creative achievements, and service to the University and community including activities in support of student retention.

Application Deadline:

Screening of applications will begin November 1, 2019. Priority will be given to applicants who meet the screening deadline; however, the position will remain open until filled.

Applicants must submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, teaching and research statements, names and email addresses of three professional references, and three current reference letters to the address below. In later phases of the search process, applicants may be requested to provide verification of terminal degrees, licenses and certificates.

How to Apply:
