The Graduate Studies Committee (GSC) met eight times during the 2016-2017 academic year (specific dates listed above). Committee members participated in external program reviews for the following graduate programs: Geography, Geology, Mass Communication, and Psychology.

This year the committee reviewed and approved curriculum from eight academic colleges, which included new degree programs: M.S. in Real Estate; M.A. in Instructional Design; M.A. in Educational Technology; M.A. in Multicultural and Multilingual Education in Secondary Schools; M.A. in Secondary Curriculum and Instruction; M.A. in Secondary English Education; M.A. in Secondary Mathematics Education; M.A. in Secondary Science Education; M.A. in Educational Therapy; M.S. in Assistive Technology Engineering (from pilot to permanent status); Joint Doctoral Program in Complex Systems; and M.A. in Public Archaeology. The committee also approved three new certificate programs: Certificate in Complex Systems; Post-Baccalaureate Certificate in Foundations of Anthropological Knowledge; and Post-Baccalaureate Certificate in Foundations of Archaeological Knowledge.

The GSC approved the changes to the GSC’s Operating Standard Procedures and Curriculum Review Process Manual. The committee also approved revisions to the Grading System for Graduate Students; Comprehensive Examinations; and the Theses, Dissertation and Graduate Projects Rules and Procedures for the University Catalog.

The GSC discussed issues with eligibility for the Thesis/Dissertation Project Committee. The committee is in the process of developing a model that would fit the vast majority of programs and departments since the current eligibility is problematic for graduate programs that do not have enough full-time tenure-track faculty. The committee will continue the discussion about what the minimum qualifications should be to serve on a Thesis/Dissertation Project Committee in 2017-2018.

The committee agreed that graduate programs can submit a memo to the GSC rather than a program modification proposal to add elective courses to their program. This will allow those electives to be entered into DARS without having to do a program modification. However, a program modification proposal will be required if the graduate program currently lists their elective courses in the University Catalog in order to have the list updated in the catalog.
