10:00 a.m. – 11:00 a.m.

In this free one-hour webinar, you will learn practical tips for creating a more positive workplace. Especially in these challenging times of Covid-19, whether you are working with others in person or remotely, having a healthy relationship with co-workers, employees, employers and clients is more important than ever. Positive Psychology Expert Devin C. Hughes will share:

- How to identify the current workplace culture during COVID19,
- The 5 key elements that make a workplace positive and engaging,
- An Action Plan for how to identify and close the gaps between where you are and where you want to be in terms of culture.

This webinar is for leaders and employees at all levels of an organization. The truth is that culture is impacted by EVERY PERSON involved and it is everyone's responsibility to bring a positive outlook into their work, every day.

All levels of the workplace structure can benefit from having a positive mindset to handle challenges and stress effectively, improve communication, stay productive and organized, stay resilient and develop leadership skills.

In this webinar, we will focus on how to communicate with tact and finesse, using assertive communication both verbally and non-verbally. We will address how to handle conflict and achieve a win-win situation with others. We will address the importance of rational thinking in the workplace, and differentiate toxic ways of thinking from healthier ways of thinking.

Learn practical ways to limit negative stress that leads to burnout. Especially in these challenging times, staying stress resilient and stress hard is more important than ever. Learn the 5 C’s of Stress Hardiness, which can help you both on the job and in life.

There will be some experiential exercises that can help put learning into action!
