Approve a Request:

Once a request is approved, it will go to the next person on the approval path for further approval. Approval path varies depending on the department and area (State, TUC, ExL).

Deny a Request:

If you wish to deny a request, it is recommended that a comment be included in the Notes and Comments section of the request, so that the requestor understands why the request is being denied. When a request is denied, no matter what level of the approval path the denial is taking place, the request will be sent back to the initiator. Depending on the reason why the request was denied, the initiator may either choose to delete the request, or they may choose to make the necessary changes to resubmit it and start the approval process again.
