Course Description

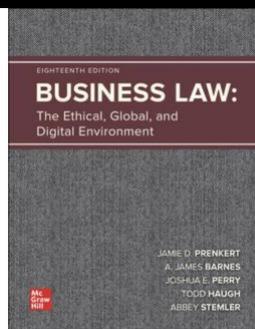

Study of the role of law in business, including the study of legal institutions and their role in facilitating and regulating business. Includes a study of the legal system, civil litigation, torts, and the formation and performance of contract, agency and employment law, the various forms of business organizations and securities law.

Prerequisites

Graduate standing

Course Materials

Required Textbook: BUSINESS LAW: THE ETHICAL, GLOBAL, AND DIGITAL ENVIRONMENT (18th Edition) By Jamie Darin Prenkert and A. James Barnes and Joshua Perry and Todd Haugh and Abbey Stemler. Additional materials and cases may be assigned as needed.

Course Objectives

- To develop strong analytical and writing skills.
- To evaluate and analyze how decisions are made in the business environment.
- To describe how law serves as a tool for generating policy and for making decisions, including business decisions.
- To expand the student’s analytical and evaluative capacity of substantive and procedural rules of law, and how these concepts influence decision making in the work environment.
- To evaluate current research and keep abreast of legal developments/legislations that impact business.
- To actively participate and present on legal issues and case law pertinent to this class.

Learning Outcomes

- The course objective will be met through a combination of activities as described on the Canvas page. The emphasis here is on interactive learning. For this purpose, classes are taught using, in part, the Socratic method, with its goal of participatory learning and the development of reasoning skills.
- Through various readings, activities and assignments in this class, students will develop analytical skills and some basic knowledge of the relevant area of the law.
- Students are reminded that learning is an exploratory process of continuous intellectual enhancement and development. For this reason, the fear of being wrong should not inhibit students' participation. Instead, students should come well prepared to each class, particularly for the case discussions, and be ready to answer questions/discuss your analysis.
- Each assignment preparation, analytical thinking, meaningful participation, deep understanding of the materials, research skills, writing skills, speaking skills, and respectful interactions with others are among the most important factors in determining the grades.

Course Topics

Below are the main topics of the course. Other topics will be likely discussed.

- I. OVERVIEW OF US LEGAL SYSTEM
- II. CONTRACTS
- III. TORTS
- IV. AGENCY
- V. EMPLOYMENT LAW
- VI. BUSINESS ORGANIZATIONS

Course Requirements

Type	Format	Percentage
Mid-Term (1)	Multiple-choice and essay questions	20%
Mid-Term (2)	Multiple-choice and essay questions	20%
Final	Multiple-choice and essay questions	25%
Case Briefs	One-page brief of cases using IRAC	15%
Participation	Weekly quizzes, discussion boards, and other online assignments in addition to weekly attendance and active participation in class.	20%

Mid-terms and final examination

- Exams are comprised of (a) essay questions, and (b) multiple-choice questions.
- For essay questions:
 - They require full and clear answers which consist of identifying the issues, analyzing the facts and applying law to the facts. Mere conclusions are not enough and may receive no credit.
 - Answers must be in IRAC format.
 - Discuss the issues involved, the applicable legal rules, an application of the law to the facts.
 - Discuss all issues. Some essay questions have more than one issue.
 - An overall structure of answers to essay questions is as follows:
 - Discuss the issue(s)
 - Define and discuss any principles of law, legal theories, etc., relevant to the question.

- Fully apply the given facts to the legal principles on which you rely. Do not ignore any facts, even if they do not support your conclusions. Do not assume that I know that you know something - tell me in your exam what you know, defining every legal term used.
- The actual conclusions you reach could be the least important part of your answer - but you must base your conclusions on complete and intelligent applications of the facts to the legal principles involved.
- Failure to take an exam at the scheduled time will result in F on that exam unless arrangements have been made with the professor.

Case Briefs:

- Briefs are one-page long per case or problem (single space, Times New Roman Font size 12). Students are required to submit the briefs on or before the class in which the relevant materials are taught. Canvas modules include the deadline for submission of briefs.
- To brief cases, case problems and questions, use the following “IRAC” format:
 - Issue: What question must be answered in order to reach a conclusion in the case? This should be a legal question which, when answered, gives a result in the particular case. Make it specific (e.g. “Has there been a false imprisonment if the plaintiff was asleep at the time of 'confinement'?”) rather than general. Most cases present one issue. If there is more than one issue, list all, and give rules for all issues raised.
 - Rule: The rule is the law which applies to the issue. It should be stated as a general principal, (e.g. A duty of care is owed whenever the defendant should anticipate that her conduct could create a risk of harm to the plaintiff.) not a conclusion to the particular case being briefed, (e.g. “The plaintiff was negligent.”)
 - Application: The application is a discussion of how the rule applies to the facts of a particular case. While the issue and rule are normally only one sentence each, the application is normally paragraphs long. It should be written debate - not simply a statement of the conclusion. Whenever possible, present both sides of any issue. Do not begin with your conclusion. The application shows how you are able to reason on paper and is the most difficult (and, on exams, the most important) skill you will learn.
 - Conclusion: What was the result of the case? With cases, the text gives you a background of the facts along with the judge’s reasoning and conclusion. When you brief cases, you are basically summarizing the judge's opinion. With case problems, the editors have given you a summary of the facts of an actual case, but have not given you the judge's opinion. Your job is to act as the judge in reasoning your way to a ruling, again using the IRAC format.

Participation:

- Participation grade is assessed based on student’s engagement with Canvas’ materials in addition to attendance and active participation in class. Each week students are required to complete quizzes, discussion boards, or other activities. Each of the activities include certain points (e.g., syllabus quiz may be 15 points). Participation grade is students’ overall grade from these activities in addition to weekly attendance and active participation in class. Students should engage in meaningful, thoughtful, respectful discussion of materials, cases, and class activities for participation. It is important that students complete all weekly Canvas assignments by their due date.

Policies

Academic and Personal Integrity

- Violations of honor codes and other integrity problems are unacceptable. In doing projects/assignments, you should cite all external sources of information (including Internet sources), fully and completely. To maintain fairness to all other students, violators of academic integrity will be penalized by receiving failing grades and will be reported to the appropriate university authorities.

- Please be advised that your papers will be submitted to a plagiarism detector software through the Canvas system, which will generate an originality report on your paper.
- Any material cited verbatim from its original source should be in quotes and contain a reference to a full citation for that source using a standard format (e.g., MLA, APA, Bluebook). Remember anytime you use a source (e.g. website, article, book) you need to properly cite. Paraphrased work should also contain a reference to the source citation. Papers and assignments with long quotes are not acceptable and will be subject to lower grades.
- Substantial similarity of written assignments with other sources will result in the zero grade for that assignment and can result in a failing grade for the course.
- It is your responsibility to read and understand the University's policy on academic dishonesty as described in the University catalog.
- Works that do not include proper citation will receive a failing grade for the assignment and possible for the course. The instructor may inform relevant university authorities including Vice President of Student Affairs.

Assignment Submission Policy

- Assignments must be turned in on the due date/time electronically via Canvas. Any technological issues are students' responsibility and the instructor will not excuse submission or late submission unless the student receives the instructor's approval in exceptional circumstance. Late or not, however, you must complete all required assignments to pass this course.
- In exceptional circumstances and depending on the type of assignment, late submissions may be accepted but with a penalty determined by the instructor.
- The instructor may make some of the grading based in part on students' peer review and evaluation.

Etiquette & Netiquette

- At all times, students must remain respectful and polite in all interactions and communications including online communication, email communications, in-person discussions. Students need to observe all rules of etiquette including 15 rules which can be found here. If a student fails to observe the rules, the instructor retains the right to decide on the issues related to etiquette & netiquette and deduct points from the participation and/or overall grade in the course.

Technology

- This is an online course. All activities, assignments and exams in this course will be completed via Canvas. Students need to have a proper device to be able to check their emails, Canvas, and other e-learning tools regularly and complete all the assignments on time. You also need reliable internet and access to certain software to be able to complete assignments. If you ever have any technical difficulties accessing the Canvas site materials you are welcome to email me or you can contact the CSUN IT department that can be reached at (818) 677-1400. Their hours are Monday-Friday from 8am-5pm.

Disability Resources & Educational Services

- If you have a disability and need accommodations, please register with the Disability Resources and Educational Services (DRES) office <http://www.csun.edu/dres> or the National Center on Deafness (NCOD) <http://www.csun.edu/ncod>. The DRES office is located in Bayramian Hall, room 110 and can be reached at 818/677- 2684. NCOD is located on Bertrand Street in Jeanne Chisholm Hall and can be reached at 818/677-2611. If you would like to discuss your need for accommodations with me, please contact me to set up an appointment. Reasonable and effective accommodations and services will be provided to students if the requests are made in a timely manner and with appropriate documentation in accordance with federal, state, and university guidelines.

Legal Advice

- Faculty members may not provide legal advice or legal services to students.

Syllabus

- The instructor reserves the right to modify and adjust the syllabus, assignments, and policies throughout the semester based on class needs and class progress. All modifications and changes will be communicated to students in writing.
