Playing with Your Inner Critic

While we spend most of our time pretending to be important, serious grownups, it's when we let go of that façade and just play, that the real magic happens. Fully embracing your own nerdy genius — whatever that is — gives you the power to make a difference and change lives. Jeff believes that we already have many of the answers we seek, and by simply unleashing our inner child, we can find our purpose and, in turn, help to create a better world.
