

Looking for an interesting and intellectually enriching class for Spring 2022?

Kanji II JAPN 204

Learn to read and write 500 basic kanji characters, and learn to use them in context. Further your study of Japanese language and culture and to increase functional language competence. Your reading comprehension and writing skills will be increased using a variety of readings, compositions and exercises, including web-based programs and reading materials. This course includes formal study of language structure, although not as the central focus of the course content. The course will be particularly helpful to students planning on learning as many kanji as possible, and eventually all the 1,950 “Kanji for Common Use.”

Section #05286

Lower Division

General Education and Comparative Cultural Studies

Credit

When:

Mondays and Wednesdays
9:30 am - 10:45 pm

Where:

EU135

Instructor:

Kanzo Takemori

Prerequisite:

Prerequisite: JAPN 102 or equivalent. Can be taken concurrently with JAPN 201.

For more information: Sierra Tower 405 & 408 (818) 677-3467

or email Instructor Kanzo Takemori at kanzo.takemori@csun.edu

College of Humanities

Modern & Classical Languages & Literatures

