Media Advisory

“T-Time” Brings the CSUN Trans* Community Together Every Wednesday

- WHAT: The Pride Center at the University Student Union (USU) invites all CSUN students who identify as part of the transgender community to attend “T-Time”, a dynamic, weekly discussion group for transgender, non-binary and questioning students where they can freely discuss their experiences and gender identity.
- WHO: Tyler Neroes, Pride Center Student Administrative Support Assistant, is responsible for putting on this event.WHEN: Everyday Tuesday starting Aug. 29 from 7 to 8:30 p.m.
- WHEN: Wednesdays from Aug. 30 to Dec. 10, 7 to 8:30 p.m.
- WHERE: Pride Center, second floor of the Sol Center at the USU.
- WHY: Provide the CSUN trans* community with a safe space to discuss relevant topics and opportunity to connect with and support each other.
- BACKGROUND: This dynamic weekly discussion provides a comfortable space for discussion whether you are transgender, gender questioning, genderqueer or believe you fit outside of the gender binary. “T-Time” is exclusively for the trans* community. Allies are welcome to attend only if they are accompanying a trans* student for support. For more information about “T-Time” or the Pride Center, please visit www.csun.edu/pride.
