

Here's what graduates tell us about the program:

"The best thing I can say about these two years is that they have prepared me to win in the classroom. Winning in the teaching game means making my students successful, and the Master's classes were filled with wonderful ideas on how to do that." -J.G.

"Entering the cohort two years ago was the best decision I've ever made. The program centered my attention on aspects of English Education I had unknowingly overlooked, and it forced me to do some professional soul searching." -K.H.

"I felt that I was among true professionals, people who really cared about their jobs and their students. To me, this was the greatest benefit of the program. Just being around these other teachers once a week reinvigorated me." -J.E.

"I plan to take all I've learned from my two years and just run with it in my classroom." -C.H.

"Doing research in the classroom has opened the doors for reading other's research, observing my students, thinking reflectively, and monitoring changes more closely." -J.A.G.
