

MANLEY WITTEN MEMORIAL AWARD 2022 APPLICATION

The scholarship honors Manley Witten, who passed away in early 2015. Former students remember Witten, longtime Sundial publisher before leaving in 2008, as an inspirational figure. They consider him “not just a professor,” but also “a mentor, activist and a leader for positive change.” Colleagues remember Witten as a selfless teacher, whose efforts deeply impacted students.

Qualifications

A qualified recipient must be a full-time undergraduate student enrolled as a major in the Journalism Department. Submission is allowed on any platform or format. Application must include a cover letter, explaining the portfolio’s focus and content.

Selection

The recipient will be selected through competitive review of applicants’ portfolios, which should represent a cross-section of their media work. The scholarship will be awarded, based on these criteria:

Criteria

The work presented must have been distributed, implemented or tested by student, university, citizen or professional media or public relations outlets.

Portfolios must:

- include journalistic, public relations and/or scholarly work completed as a CSUN student.
- show creative, independent and critical-thinking ability;
- represent high ethical and research standards;
- demonstrate diversity of subjects and people portrayed; and/or diversity of publics and communities engaged.
