

Honors Co-Op Program

2012 –13 Cycle

Honors Co-Op provides an excellent opportunity for the University's most promising engineering and computer science students to work under the close supervision of professionals in industry. Students work full-time in the summer and half-time during the fall and spring semesters, while completing their upper division coursework at California State University Northridge. The year-long program is a very important part of the total educational experience for our students.

Established in direct response to industry requests for technical apprentices, the program is designed to ensure that companies receive a high-quality work product for their investment. Participation is limited to honor students whose applications are screened by the college.

The dynamic combination – significant work experience and good grades – gives newly trained engineers and computer scientists a strong foundation from which to begin their careers. Typically, more than 80% of the Honors Co-Op students accept permanent positions with their industry sponsors.
